Areas of Practice & Industry Specialties

Products Liability Law; Litigation; Intellectual Property Law; Automotive Lawyers; Health Care/Life Sciences; Technology Law

Bobbie Hooper's practice focuses on a wide variety of litigation matters, including product liability, business, and intellectual property. She has represented clients in state and federal courts throughout California involving a variety of products and intellectual property, including medical devices and treatments, automobiles, automotive component parts, motorcycles, firearm holsters, drug test kits, farming equipment, and other types of machinery.

Bobbie specializes in defending the motor vehicle industry and has defended automotive manufacturers in cases involving handling/stability, body structure performance, seat design, seat belts, and inflatable restraints. With an educational background in biology, pre-medicine, and injury studies, and experience as a staff engineer in accident reconstruction, Bobbie enjoys the challenge of learning the technical issues involved in product design and performance.

She is experienced with all facets of file handling from inception all the way through trial where she has received defense verdicts as well as dismissals by way of summary judgment. Clients appreciate her ability to be tenacious and aggressive when necessary, but practical and cost efficient where possible. She uses a results-oriented approach to handling complex issues that provides cost-effective representation from claim evaluation and resolution through trial.

Bobbie obtained her Juris Doctor and Certification in High Technology Law from Santa Clara University, where she served as the articles editor for the Santa Clara Law Review and spent a summer in Munich studying the rules and procedures of the European Patent Office.

Outside of work, Bobbie was a member of the Lotus Club of Southern California and the Porsche Club of America and enjoys attending car shows when possible.
