Suzanne Cate Jones has extensive experience litigating complex business and commercial disputes, class actions, large-scale product liability and toxic tort actions, and litigation involving the health care industry. Ms. Jones is a Shareholder in Buchalter's Los Angeles office, and a member of the Firm's Litigation and Health Care Practice Groups.

Ms. Jones regularly represents hospitals and hospital systems in litigation concerning a broad range of health care areas, including medical staff and peer review, antitrust, medical privacy/security breach, credentialing, and hospital commercial contracting disputes, and has successfully litigated and resolved several health care-related class action matters on behalf of hospital clients. Ms. Jones also advises health care organizations on hospital and medical staff bylaws, rules and regulations, peer review matters, credentialing and physician recruiting agreements, among other matters.

Ms. Jones also has experience defending federal and state court class action complaints filed against her corporate clients in many other types of class action lawsuits, including statutory consumer claims, privacy, wage-and-hour and other types of employment-related claims. She also supervised the defense of state attorney general actions brought against the tobacco industry seeking to recover monies expended by the states on smoking-related diseases, and has litigated several high profile product liability actions and commercial business and trade secret disputes, among others.

In addition to health care clients, Ms. Jones represents clients across a wide variety of industries, including consumer credit, financial, hotels, real estate, food and beverage, food supplements/pharmaceuticals, telecommunications, and transportation. She regularly litigates wage/hour and other types of employment disputes, as well as disputes concerning real property, trade secrets, partnerships, franchises, product liability, securities, corporate governance, unfair competition and consumer claims.

Prior to her legal career, Ms. Jones worked for one of the nation's largest construction companies where she was responsible for regulatory and contract compliance for large construction projects, among other things. She also has worked for entrepreneurial start-ups and Fortune 500 companies in various positions.

Ms. Jones is repeatedly acknowledged as a Southern California Super Lawyer and has received multiple awards and recognition for her Pro Bono work, including by Alliance for Children's Rights and Chadbourne & Parke LLP.
